

ALL-AMERICA LISTING
(as of 8/24/07)

The All-America program is a difficult one to describe because it varies so much from sport to sport.

For instance, there are several All-America football teams chosen now, including one by Associated Press, one by the American Football Coaches Association, another by a panel of sports information directors, plus others by various football publications. In previous years, there were even more because many major metropolitan newspapers would pick their own All-America teams.

In sports such as soccer, lacrosse and baseball, the official All-America teams are selected by the national coaches associations or by the sport's governing body. As an example, the American Baseball Coaches Association is the sponsoring organization for that sport's All-America teams, while in men's lacrosse, the team is picked by the United States Intercollegiate Association.

In contrast to the selection process is the manner in which All-America teams are determined in sports such as wrestling, swimming and track and field. In those sports, a student-athlete is awarded All-America honors if he or she is among the top finishers in his or her event at the national championship. For instance, any swimmer who finishes in the top 12 at the NCAA national meet in an event is designated an All-America.

As the above examples indicate, the term All-America carries a different significance according to the sport. The Alumni Affairs and Sports Information Offices have attempted to compile the comprehensive list of Western Maryland All-America student-athletes, and we thank those who have assisted us in the project. We also apologize to anyone who has been overlooked and ask you to notify us so that you can be properly recognized.
