

THE WRITING MINOR

Want to be a teacher, editor, journalist, grant writer, or publisher? Considering a career in web development, law, business, fundraising, public relations, advertising or marketing?

If so, effective writing is critical to your success.

In fact, employers in a variety of fields actively seek graduates who can demonstrate their fluency in reading, writing, speaking and designing.

In the English Department, we teach courses that will help you develop a complex understanding of 21st century communication.

We give you experience producing and reflecting on the kinds of texts emerging in today's technology-rich landscape and the opportunities to engage with theories about writers, audiences, and the power of (and poetry in) language.

If you have questions about the minor, talk with your advisers in the English Dept. or contact Kate Dobson <kdobson@mcdaniel.edu> or Julia Jasken <jjasken@mcdaniel.edu>.

TAKE THREE: Intermediate Writing Courses

ENG 2206	Creative Writing - Poetry	Mangan
ENG 2207	Creative Writing - Fiction	Mangan
ENG 2208	Advanced Comp. - Prose Style	Dobson
ENG 2209	Memoir	Dobson
ENG 2211 *	Grammar and Usage	Spence
ENG 2212	Professional Communication	Jasken
ENG 2214	Editing and Desktop Publishing	Jasken

You may also choose from ONE of the following:

ENG 2204	Advanced News Reporting and Writing	Dalton
OR
ENG 2215/16	Four credits Newspaper Practicum	Breslin

TAKE ONE: Advanced Professional Communication

ENG 3307	Writing in Digital Environments	Jasken
ENG 3308	Writing in Law and Policy	Dobson
ENG 3312 	Writing for Nonprofit Organizations	Jasken
ENG XXXX	Internship, with writing focus	varies

TAKE ONE: Theories of Language and Rhetoric

ENG 3306 *	Approaches to the Study of Language	Spence
ENG 3309	Rhet. Appr. to Everyday Discourse	Dobson
ENG 3310	Rhet. Appr. to Nonfiction Literature	Dobson

* You may count either 2211 or 3306, but you may not count both.

 This course features a required internship with a local nonprofit organization.